

Product Manager UX

Berlin-Mitte

About the Role

We're looking for an experienced Product Manager with an unrelenting UX mindset and a focus on delivery to join a new product team focusing on our experience for new customers and keeping them happy and engaged long term. The Product Manager will work with design to research and understand our customer needs, collaborate across design and engineering to envision solutions, and then ensure that those solutions are implemented in a way that improves the customer experience.

- Drive the product team's strategy and enable all the teams around you to work together to deliver it
- Focus on features that help boost the acquisition, retention and engagement of our product and develop the KPIs and feedback loops that allow us to continuously improve those
- Turn feature releases into a repeatable process that can deliver quality results time after time
- Participate in tasks including market research, prototyping, usability testing, customer feedback loops and data analysis
- Write key documents including: roadmap documents, feature briefs, release notes
- Maintain the right balance between effective processes and autonomous workflows

Your Profile

- You have 3+ years as a Product Manager or similar role
- Demonstrated experience leading cross-functional remote teams
- Iterative mindset with a bias toward action and improvement
- Familiarity with both design and development agile methodologies
- Ability to handle multiple competing priorities in a fast-paced environment
- Familiarity with developer engineering workflows
- Strong troubleshooting and analytical thinking skills
- Experience working with design to create and execute simple, elegant, impactful end result

Our Offer

- As part of Beets&Roots Team you enjoy great Team Atmosphere , healthy Food & delicious Barista Coffe for free.
- Flat Hierarchies with direct contact to Management
- Promising and clear career Possibilities in a fast-growing Start-Up

We're looking forward to hearing from you. Send us an E-Mail with your CV and a few lines about your motivation to oneteam@beetsandroots.de